

'We are at a moment of enormous crisis in which every major institution political, economic, educational, and religious seems to be unravelling before our eyes. This moment is being described as a poly-crisis of social and environmental challenges, including wars drag us further into dead ends of militarism and empire '

“At its core, even our spirituality is Earth derived. The human and the Earth are totally implicated, each in the other...If there is no spirituality in the Earth, then there is no spirituality in ourselves.”
—Thomas Berry, “The Spirituality of the Earth”

‘Because of their closeness to the natural world, the ancients, somewhat like contemporary Indigenous Peoples, knew a convivial relationship with the living universe, experiencing the daily interaction of life and death, creation and destruction, without—it seems—our contemporary compulsion for domination and control.’
